FORECAST FOR FUTURE MINING IS OPTIMISTIC

While things are seemingly quiet after the recent flurry for mining properties, and there are not as many mining men in town as last week, progress is noted in all of our working properties. Those recently bonded or leased are formulating plans for installing machinery, studying mining engineers reports, and preparing for active work in the near future.

Many properties that have lain idle during the winter on account of the cold weather and snow are reopening as fast as the snow melts and roads are becoming passable.

The Joubert Mine near Camptonville which has been in the Joubert family for 50 or 60 years, opened recently and a crew of men are busy sluicing gravel.

Word comes to us this week that a crew of men are busily engaged at the Indian Hill Mine above Camptonville.

The Standard Mine at Downieville which recently changed hands, is working a crew of men.

All three properties expect to add to their crews of men as soon as the weather becomes milder.

At Goodyear Bar, where about a dozen properties were working last year, some activity is rumored, and with an abundance of water this season, it won't be long until that mining district is humming.

At the working mines near Nevada City many changes in machinery are being made, or are being anticipated shortly.

Several mining deals of importance are rumored for the Nevada City district, in the near future.

At Alleghany several transfers have been made of prominent mining properties recently, and with the opening of spring great activity should be in evidence there.

Mr. A. J. Anderson of Graniteville came to Nevada City Thursday and called at The Nugget office Friday. He stated that there was around seven or eight feet of snow at the Baltic Mine.

He has a promising mining property the Boston on which he has run several tunnels the work on all of them being about 600 feet.

Mr. Anderson came to this district from the United States navy in 1883 and has remained ever since.

Panning Shows Values—

Preliminary pannings made by M. L. Mitchell on a shaft he is sinking on the James ranch near Grass Valley, have indicated good prospects. Excellent showings of gold were exhibited here by Mitchell after panning in a formation at a depth of about 15 feet.

Nevada City Band—

Tuesday evening a score of bandsmen gathered in the Chamber of Commerce rooms and under the leadership of John Blamey, pioneer bandsman of Nevada County, held a practice that produced splendid results. A number of other bandsman who were not present plan on attending the next practice. Mr. Blamey said the men must make the band a matter of civic pride and be willing to do a lot of free playing. Occasionally assignments will come that will pay a few dollars. This is a splendid spirit displayed by these musicians and Nevada City and County will be proud to call them the Nevada City Band.

Snow Pictures of near Downieville—

Messrs. O. E. McCraney and Frank Clark, mining engineers, were visitors in Downieville last week end. Mr. Clark had some pretty snow pictures taken by Mr. Tony Lavezzola when the 16 men took a sled into the mountains in February and brought out the body of Mr. Clark, the retired policeman of Oakland, who froze to death in his cabin.

Judge Tuttle In S. F Court—

Judge Raglan Tuttle left Tuesday for San Francisco to assist the District Court of Appeal under assignment of Chief Justice Waste of the State Supreme Court. He returned in time to preside at the regular session of the superior Court of Nevada County Thursday morning.

Nugget From Forest Hill—

A specimen of quartz gold weighing 28 ounces and having an estimated value of $532 is being displayed at the Placer County Bank, in Auburn.

The specimen was taken out of a mine on the Forest Hill Divide within the last few days.

Funeral Held For Kenneth Lewis—

The funeral of the late Kenneth Lewis was held last Sunday at the Holmes Funeral Home chapel. Beautiful floral offerings and the large attendance of friends attested to the high esteem in which he was held. Rev. H. H. Buckner conducted the servies. Interment was made in Pine Grove cemetery. Pall-bearers were Andrew Jones, John Pisani, Joe Pisani, Steve Matteoda, Thomas Jones and Forest Penrose.

Mrs. Vera Bowrin of Colfax, who is District Deputy Grand Matron of the Order of Eastern Star, delivered an interesting talk to members of Evangeline Chapter, No. 9, Tuesday evening. Preceding the meeting a dinner was enjoyed at the National Hotel.

PLANE FORCED DOWN

Ray Little, veteran air mail pilot, wrecked his airplane, but saved his mail cargo and escaped unhurt Monday night when bad weather forced him to make a landing at Sierraville, Sierra County, in a snow covered field.

He was piloting a westbound plane to Sacramento from Reno, and hit bad weather and poor visibility. Little dropped a flare, picked a spot and landed. His plane turned over twice.

The pilot brought the mail into town to arrange for its transportation to Reno. The plane will be repaired in several days, it is expected, and be moved under its own power.

GOLDEN HILL LOCKWOOD MINE TO BE REOPENED

In partnership with Jackson business men, Joseph Hamby of Angels Camp has acquired, under lease and bond, from F. G. Cary of Lodi and C. C. Mathews of San Francisco, the Golden Hill mine, three miles north of San Andreas, and is making preparations to rehabilitate it. Mr. Hamby states that a 25-horsepower electric hoist will be installed on the 250 foot incline shaft, following the unwatering of which development work will be resumed on the 150-foot level to tap the downward extension of a high-grade orebody opened up on the surface and explored to a depth of 100 feet by his father nearly a half rentury ago.

Fred M. Hughes of Los Angeles and associates plan to erect in the immediate future a mill of at least 30 tons daily capacity on the Lockwood mine near West Point according to Manager Frank Garbarini. The Lockwood and several other properties in the same locality were recently taken over by Mr. Hughes and associates on leases and bonds.

The Mother Lode Central Gold Mines Company is unwatering the 280-foot incline shaft on its Lamphear mine near Mokelumne Hill, under the direction of Manager James Hamby. The task should be completed at an early date.

HUCKINS BROTHERS FILE 11 YUBA MINING CLAIMS

S. H. Huckins of Yuba City and Henry Huckins of North San Juan have filed on 11 mining claims on a ledge of ore which is in Yuba County adjacent to mining property they own on the Nevada County side The Huckins Brothers worked the same ledge until the bottom dropped out of the copper market.

The locators added gold, silver, platinum and acid values to the copper for which they have sought in the ledge. The Bradley Mining Company, who are operating mining property across the Yuba River from the recorded claims will be active in the development of the new ground.

Henry Huckins has lived in North San Juan all his life. He has seen hydraulic mining in its heydey and the closing down of the mines. He is an ore buyer and buys much gold from those engaged in sluicing along the Yuba River.

In the last few years he has seen quite a little mining renewed around North San Juan and expects to see a return of the good old mining days.

ROSEVILLE MAN INVENTS ANOTHER GOLD MACHINE

E. P. Wright of Roseville is exhibiting at his residence a new piece of machinery, upon which he has a patent pending and which is to be used as a modern and quicker method of panning gold.

The model is fashioned almost entirely of metal; has three screens of different mesh to separate the gravel and has a cradle rocker. This is sprayed by means of a water pump, the water from which eventually flows back to its original osurce, thereby conserving the water supply. An endless belt carries away the rock and sediment.

The entire outfit is operated by a four-cycle Briggs & Stratton gasoline engine, which can be run on two gallons of gas for eight hours, it is claimed. The complete equipment weighs only 700 pounds and can be moved on a trailer cr truok. —Roseville Tribune.

IDAHO - MARYLAND MINES REPORT COMPLETION OF SUCCESSFUL YEAR

Program Planned to Increase Production in Coming Year; Flotation Plant, Ball Mill Have Been Installed

Mr. Errol MacBoyle, president of the Idaho-Maryland Mines, returned to his home in Grass Valley from a trip in San Francisco where he presided at the Annual Meeting of the Idaho-Maryland Mines Company. The report showed a most successful year just closed for the Idaho-Maryland.

During the past year the flotation plant and ball mill were installed, and metallurgical experiment which was carried on to save large percentage of the values which were going into the tailings. This experiment has been worked out satisfactorily.

Within the past few months the company has acquired the Loma Rica Ranch adjoining the Brunswick property, which is owned by the Idaho-Maryland Company. This comprises about 250 acres.

A bonanza rich strike was made on the1400 level and a ledge was uncovered which ran 200,000 to the ton, proving that the Idaho-Maryland had high grade ore as well as the good milling ore.

The management plans a program to increase production starting July 1st. They will discard the amalgamation process, which they have used, and use concentration instead. The company will do extensive development work, particularly in the Brunswick Mine. President MacBoyle stated that while this work was being planned there would be no positions available. The Idaho-Maryland, as well as other mines in the district, has had to turn away scores of men daily, who are seeking positions.

NEW CUB PROGRAM

Tahoe Area Council Boy Scout Headquarters has just received formal permission from the National office of the Boy Scouts of America to use and operate the new Cub program in this Area.

This program for boys 9-10 and 11 years of age has been "scientifically" built by Dr. H. W. Hunt in collaboration with literally thousands of educators, child psychologists and individual workers in character building agencies. This work has been done for the past 6 years under the supervision of the Boy Scouts of America and has taken Dr. Hurt to many foreign countries to study their younger boy programs.

Cubbing, an entirely different program from Scouting, is based on projects and "back yard activities" of the neighborhood group of boys of younger than Scout age. The organization of Cub Pack adults is much the same as the Boy Scout Troop execept that the parents are tied in much closer in Cubbing. The actual Pack organization and Troop formation are very different.

Councils who have already undertaken Cubbing have found it very interesting work sponsored largely in some cases by Parent Teacher Associations and churches, tho in many cases Cubbing is a separate boys program in the same institution sponsoring Boy Scout Troops.

Requests for permission to operate the new program have been received from several communities in the Area according to Judge J. B. Landis, President of the Tahoe Area Council, who says it is now up to this Council to appoint a Cub Committee and Commissioner to promote Cub work in the Area.

CORONER RETURNS WITH REMAINS OF SNOW VICTIM

Deputy Coroner Alvah Hooper returned to Nevada City Wednesday evening with what remained of the body of Frank Lowell Stewart, mining man, who was lost in the big January snow storm near Cisco. He attempted to return to the mine against the warnings of friends.

His skis were found Tuesday morning sticking upright in the snow, about 150 feet from the Grouse Ridge trail between Cisco and the Graham Cabin in Pierce Meadows. The position of the skis was a signal among mountain men of impending danger.

A group of men set out Tuesday morning and found the dismembered body evidently eaten by wild animals, a short distance from the skis.

Stewart was born at Cedarville in 1889. His father who resides at El Cerito, Alameda County, came to Nevada City and attended the funeral Thursday. Services were conducted by Rev. H. H. Buckner in the chapel of the Holmes Funeral Home. Interment was made in Pine Grove cemetery.

Mr. Hooper had a hard trip much of the way from the road led over soft snow.

The Mitchell property has a shaft which has been worked down about 200 feet and from ore displayed from this property it is one of the promising mines of the district. It is in the same district as the Loma Rica Ranch near the Idaho-Maryland Mines.

MANY MILLIONS IN GOLD REMAIN TO BE MINED

Under the feet of a few thousand Californians there lies, supposedly within comparatively easy reach, virgin gold estimated by the state bureau of mines to be worth $600,000,000.

Taking cognizance of the increasing clamor for the precious metal, the bureau recently summarized in that figure its idea of the amount of gold still within the grasp of casual prospectors and placer miners in the state.

In its estimate the state bureau has concluded that there remains almost as much recoverable gold in California as has been taken out since the great discovery of 1848. From that year to the end of 1931 the state produced $1,852,203,964 worth of gold. The estimates indicate she may produce another $1,500,000,000 worth.

MERRIAM FOR ASSESSMENT MORITORIUM

Mt. Kisco, N. Y., Mar. 9, 1932.
Mrs. Elsie P. Willoughby,
Nevada City, California.

Dear Mrs. Willoughby: I am very thankful to you for a fine letter, and am so glad you are now making recovery from your recent illness. I have read some place that a movement is under way to bring about at least a temporary moratorium on assessment work on mining claims. I understand this movement is based on the theory that times are so hard that miners and owners who have put their last dollar into mining properties are about to lose them and that others then will come in and reap the reward of the labors of these other worthy fellows.

I do not know in what direction the movement is tending, but I would like to voice my approval of the idea. It seems to me that if this great nation and other nations who have lately been engaged in a bitter ruthless war with Germany can extend to Germany a moratorium on debts incurred on the theory of necessity, we here in America should follow the example and extend to our own citizens and our worthy pioneers in mining similar assistance in these strenuous times. I do not know whether the moratorium should be absolutely on in the form of a pro rata suspension. In other words, I will let those better qualified in mining suggest what the amount of assessment should be per claim. but I will not hesitate to advocate the theory that it would be eminently proper just now to suspend 80 percent of the assessment work, allowing it to accrue perhaps in two years from now. In other words, the assessment work would be held in suspension so that a person with, say, five claims would need to spend only $100 on these five claims per annum for the next two years, say, by which time America should have recovered from the slump and be moving along in an orderly fashion. Then this suspended assessment work should be caught up in some form in the next several years thereafter, so that the suspended assessment work could be amortized, if you please, over a short period of years. I do not know as I make myself plain, but I think something along this line could be very advantageously worked out so that those who have labored so hard to hold on to their claims for many, many years would not suffer the total loss of all of the money which they have invested. I for one am so fond of your wonderful section, and so love those Nevada City hills, and your entire county, the quartz-crowned Empress of the Sierras that I should never be happy again if I thought that claims which I own myself were to be wiped out through inability to pay, and that I would thereby be prevented from the anticipation of the occasional visits which are always looked forward to with such wonderful enthusiam. I trust you will advise me more definitely just what steps are being taken along this line.

Yours very sincerely
JOSEPH E. MERRIAM

Nugget, Nevada City, Calif.

Dear Editor: Would like very much to learn where I can obtain information about the Pierce gold washer and amalgamator. Would also like to learn of any other late equipment on concentrating and placer handling machinery having low cost and at the same time to handle yardage.

Will appreciate your co-operation sincerely. Thanking you kindly.

Dear Mrs. Willoughby:

Glad indeed to see you are back on "board ship" acting as Captain again.

I wish you would again publish either in The Nugget or Mining Journal the J. M. O'Brien letter you published in one of the November issues of The Nugget. The thing that most interests capital here is the possible chance for profits. That $3.000" per share Dividends mentioned in the O'Brien letter caused more REAL interest in California Mining than anything else published. The copy I received was soon worn to tatters by the various and numerous men who wanted to read the J. M. O'Brien letter.

NEW EQUIPMENT GOING INTO GERALDINE MINE

Sonora, Cal.—Work of installing new equipment on the Geraldine property near Confidence is proceeding most satisfactorily. This property and associated mining claims was recently taken under lease and bond by the Crow Mining Company, composed of a number of capitalists of Los Angeles.

This new equipment consists of a ball mill and 135 ton tailings bin, which will supplement the two stamp mill.

The company plans first to operate the tailings on the old dump, as an assay shows large values can be extracted.

APPLIES FOR HEARING

The Truckee Public Utility District has applied to the railroad commission for a rehearing of its recent decision approving the sale by the Truckee Electric Light and Power company of its electric lighting system in the town of Truckee to Sierra Pacific Power company.

The petition for the rehearing questions the decision, alleging that a certificate of public convenience and necessity should have been required on the ground that the operation of the system now owned by Truckee Electric Light and Power company as a part of the distribution system of the Sierra Pacific would constitute a new operation.

HAROLD CLOUDMAN OUT FOR CONGRESS

Cloudman, author of the Cloudman Bills to aid hydraulic mining, is to be a candidate for Congress from the new Congressional District embracing his his home in Alameda County. Cloudman, on March 8th, 1932, before the Manufacturers Association, said:

"The East Bay's Mokelumne project will be threatened with State seizure if the proposed State water conservation constutional amendment carries, Assemblyman Harold C. Cloudman of Berkeley told the Manufacturers' Association at its monthly meeting recently at Hotel Whitecotton. He declared that he is firmly convinced that the proposal is dangerous.

"I was the only one of the 14 members of the California joint legislative water committee that voted against the proposed amendment," he said; "and I did so principally for the following three reasons: First, the amendment delegates power to the legislature to define surplus water. Second, no restrictions are placed on the legislature relative to the amount of bonds that could be issued, subjected only to a restriction by the vote of the people. Third, it delegates power to the State to condemn any and all existing water projects."

Cloudman gave the Manufacturers an informal talk on work in the legislature. He said that Governor Friend W. Richardson was about the only governor that the knows of who allowed the legislature to function. The legislature meets the first Monday in January every odd year and the first session of 30 days is largely confined to the filing of bills and at the first session between 2000 and 3000 bills are submitted. Then there is a recess of 30 days during which time members are supposed to familiarize themselves with these bills.

At the second session each member is allowed to introduce only two additional bills.

"It is absolutely impossible for any legislature to go through all the bills filed during the opening session," Cloudman said, "and right here is where the lobbyist steps in. Legislatures can't get along without them. We hear arguments pro and con on the various measures and then use our own judgment.

"During the second session bills pour out from committee and we hold meetings up to 11:30 at night and then are in session the next morning at 10 o'clock. At the end of the session legislators are glad to get home and most of them have to take a two week's rest before they can go back to their own business."

Cloudman explained his hydraulic mining bill and said it would eventually pass the legislature. He said that it was killed by the veto of Governor C. C. Young. "If it had become a law," Cloudman said, "more than $7,000,000 would have been spent in the state by the federal government and at least 50,000 men would have been employed permanently. Miles and miles of roads would have been built and millions of dollars would have poured into the Bay District and Sacramento for supplies.

"A great number of persons who opposed the bill at that time are now thoroughly convinced that it is a good project and that it would aid materially in working out the conservation of water program which is now the paramount issue in the State. A committee of outstanding engineers appointed by the Commonwealth Club of San Francisco subsequently made an extended investigation covering 8 months and reported in favor of the bill."

Cloudman enumerated several other problems which are confronting the State and National Governments and dwelt especially upon those affecting taxation and unemployment. He outlined how the cost of government in California has grown.

"Governor Richardson carried on with a $173,000,000 budget," he said. "Then Governor Young came into office with a $250,000,000 budget, and Governor Rolph's budget is in excess of that. The first problem in readjustment of taxation is to cut the cost of government, principally doing away with overlapping of State agencies and boiling down the number of commissions."

Let every hydraulic miner who has a friend in this district get behind Cloudman. Be not only grateful for the past, but hopeful for the future with this staunch friend in Congress.

18TH HEALTH ARTICLE IS GIVEN BY DR. CRONWELL

(Article 18 of a series of health articles written by Dr. B. C. Cronwell, chiropractor and food scientist formerly of San Francisco, now temporarily located in Nevada City, California.)

This is the time of the year when most everyone, seeing the green grass and the trees leafing out and blossoming, has an intense desire to get out in the yard and dig in the flower beds and make a garden.

The present-day popular automobile has just about done away with the family garden of some 15 years back. In those days road conditions would not permit every one to run into town any day they wished to get a supply of foods, and most everyone, except in the heart of large cities, had a nice garden.

The writer is well acquainted with a family who have lived for the past 60 years on a small three-acre place and I believe they can truthfully say they have never paid out one 25-cent piece for vegetables or fruits. If ther chappened to be some kind of fruit which they did not have there was always a nearby neighbor to share his with them in return for something they had an abundance of. Members of that family worked out by the day on the neighboring farms, for 75 cents a day, morning from sun-up to sun-down, and I believe they saved 90 cents of every dollar earned as their only expense was cheap work clothes and a little fresh meat once a week.

The family horse, a cow, about two pigs and less than 50 chickens were the extent of their livestock. The small potatoes, weeds and table grapes furnished plenty of feed for the pigs. When they butchered in the fall they had their year's supply of lard, bacon, hams, shoulders and a barrel of salt pork for beans and to boil with vegetables and fry hot cakes in the morning. The butcher did not get their calf. It was kept until winter when the meat could be put in the big stone jar out in the yard where it would freeze and be fresh meat supply for a long time. Young roosters from a few chickens raised every spring, by the time of about three-days a boys on to 10 to 12 years, do not think they ever spent a 5-cent piece of money for anything for the Sunday dinner, Thanksgiving or Christmas. The cow furnished an abundance of fresh raw milk and cream, which meant cottage cheese, clabber milk, and butter and for cooking.

Some of the men was always hunting or fishing when not employed; this furnished the table with fresh fish once or twice a week, cottontail, squirrel, quail and duck when in season. Let me remind you again that this was a small place of only three acres of good rich valley land and the family was from four to six at the table three times a day. Eggs were exchanged for tea, coffee, baking powder, salt and pepper.

About half of this place furnished pasture for the horse and cow. Wild hay was cut on the river bottoms and hauled in for the winter feed. About one acre was used for the main garden, which received all the waste from the stable for fertilizer. This being spaded over the garden in the fall and during the winter to rot and be plowed under every spring. The other half acre was made up of a variety of fruit trees and berries. About four varieties of apples, a crab apple tree, copule cherry and plum trees, rhubarb, currants, blackberries, gooseberries, black and red raspberris. The house of four rooms downstairs and two upstairs, was furnished shade for the front and by a grape arbor at the rear, which also furnished usually a good crop of Concord grapes. A few more black walnut and a butternut tree were to be found in the pasture, furnishing shade for the horse and cow and also food for the owners. Every winter found the cellar and pantry sorted with provisions to last until the new crops in the spring.

About 75 bushles of potatoes, several heads of cabbage, carrots, turnips and onions. Flour was bought by the 100-pound sacks at a time of the year when it was the lowest in price and usually meant about six new dishcloths yearly from the large sacks. About two sacks of yellow corn was taken to the mill and ground for corn bread and to feed baby chickens in the spring. The writer visited this place while on a vacation in the summer of '29 and found the only member of that family alive and still living there. He was the youngest son, he never married, staying with the mother until she passed away. Every member of that family lived to a nice ripe old age of from 77, way up into the 80's. The last member was then 79 and had a Ford car to replace the old family horse. A good-sized strawberry patch, with the currants blackberries and raspberries, is now his source of income. A sign on the front gate, "Berries for Sale," stops the passing motorists, who buy his crop, estimated at over $400 a season.

He said last year he only raised 40 bushels of potatoes, which was "plenty for an old batch like me." Well, I presume that 20 years ago found three-fourths of our population independently living just like I have related of this place. Today everyone wants to live in the city and make a living trying to sell what a few raise. We have a very true saying, "the average person of today is just two-bitting himself to death." Henry Ford says what this country needs is a landslide of people back onto small places, not to make money, but to make a comfortable living, something they have not had since they left the country for the city life.

If you have a small plot of good ground near the well or other water supply, why not get busy and plant a little garden? I want to emphasize on the word little when it comes to planting a garden. Most people try to take in too much territory. In a very short time you find it more work than you have time to spare and it is neglected, and no food is derived from it. Just try a small piece of ground 10 by 20 to 40 feet and you will be surprised to see how much you can raise, in small vegetables such as lettuce, onions, turnips, carrots, peas, pole beans, parsnips, ground cherries and cabbage. If you own your own home and have a few chickens and a little garden you will not have much cash income to live in comfort. The care of your body is the one thing we are most interested in and plenty of good fresh vegetables and fruits, plus the exercise from taking care of the garden, is our greatest guarantee of retaining and retaining health.

Fred Searls, vice president of the Newmont Company, from New York, is here on business connected with the company's mining interests.

FRENCH CORRAL

French Corral, March 15—After all of last year's drought and winter's ice and snow (and we certainly had plenty of it this past winter) springtime brings its usual beauty to French Corral!

Trees and flowers abloom, pastures and hillsides covered with verdure, children busy, and happy gathering the wildflowers—all make the heart take on new life, and forget some of the hardships of the past year.

For several days it has been trying to rain, but is not making much headway so far.

Some who were working with "long Toms" have ceased operations for want of water.

Mr. Roy E. McNamara of Tyler visited friends and relatives in French Corral last Friday and Saturday.

Louis Sorenzr, who resided here for several months last year has returned to French Corral.

Thomas Meyer who is now residing in San Jose, was a visitor last week.

Miss Theresa O'Connor and brother, Mike, made a trip to Nevada City Saturday.

Fire Warden William Sharp, and Ray O'Conner, forest warden, were visitors in this section Saturday.

N. B. Bishop had business in Nevada City Saturday.

Mrs. A. Browning, who spent several days in Nevada City last week, on account of the illness of her son, Donald, who is under the care of Dr. Reed, returned to her home Sunday. The little boy is better but still under doctor's care.

Miss Virginia Day was a Sunday visitor with friends in this place.

Miss Frances Moulton of Sacramento spent the weeks end with relatives in French Corral.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Moulton and daughter, Frances, spent Sunday in Nevada City where they enjoyed a birthday dinner with their daughter. Mrs. Lloyd Dudley. Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Dudley of North Bloomflied, parents of Mr. Lloyd Dudley, and Mr. Moran of Downieville, a dear friend, were also guests at the dinner party. We are glad to know that Mr. Lloyd Dudley has recovered sufficiently from his recent operation to leave the sanitarium and return to his home.

Mr. and Mrs. Olin Harding and daughter, Jean, who have been residents of French Corral for several months have gone to San Francisco to reside.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Franciscovitch of Marysville were Sunday visitors.

Mrs. Fransicovitch's son, Clyde Bishop, who has been spending some time here returned to Marysville with them Sunday evening.

Miss Catherine O'Connor, Mrs. Lillian Hall, and Michael O'Connor of Birchville made a trip to Sacramento Monday, and returned to their home this Tuesday evening.

Mr. H. R. Haslett and son, Lloyd, made a trip to Nevada City Monday.

As items are scarce, we will tell you about "Bobby" the faithful little dog, who was the means of saving the life of Mrs. Kate Sullivan, when she stumbled into an old well Thanksgiving night. When Mrs. Sullivan stepped out that night to trun a belated animal into the field the little dog was curled up in his box in the kitchen, sound asleep. When he was let out of the house the next morning he went to the well and barked and whined until he attracted a neighbor to the scene. When they removed Mrs. Sullivan from the well and were rubbing her back to life, he climbed upon the blankets and cuddled down at her back and remained there until the ambulance came to take her away. During her absence a kind neighbor took care of him, but in all those lonely weeks he kept faithful vigil at his home. He often cried out in his loneliness awaiting her return and she in turn looked forward to the time when she would take him in her arms and hug him to her heart in appreciation of his faithfulness. The very night that she returned to her home Bobby got into a fight with a big dog and was killed, and his mistress never saw him again. All the neighborhood grieved over the death of faithful little Bobby. Only a dog, but man's truest friend.

has always been the consideration in purchasing, and rightly, too.

No one likes to spend money. I am willing to exchange money for something which will render greater satisfaction than the possession of money itself.

No matter how cheap the price, satisfaction can never be secured by an inferior thing, be it a play, a motor or a memorial. The price paid for disappointment is excessive no matter how little the initial cost of it.

The price of MEMORIALS which bring enduring satisfaction to the purchaser is low, even if the investment may be greater than anticipated. The Nevada City Monumental Works is offering you the highest standard of workmanship and material at lowest possible prices. Many people are confused about Marble and Granite. All marble is only a cheap substitute for Granite and it lasts only one-twentieth as long as granite.

We have two kinds of very hard and durable Nevada County Granite on hand. If you like the county in which you are living, why not patronize its products in preference to shipped in stuff which naturally costs more, but is inferior to our own granite.

After three years of sickness I am with you again, friends, and trying to build up a new Nevada County industry. Wouldn't you help by asking for Nevada County granite when in the market for any cemetery work? With pleasure will I show you samples of this granite and hundreds of new dseigns of Monuments and Markers in prices to suit any pocketbook. Satisfaction guaranteed. See
